

Executive Summary

This project analyzed real estate property data to identify pricing patterns and business opportunities. The analysis found that property area and location are the strongest drivers of property price. City Center properties showed the highest average prices, while villas generated premium market value. Recommendations include targeting high-demand locations and improving data-driven pricing strategies.